Mrs. John Zaluzny and Mrs. Marshall Hamar have had as their guests their sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Pentland, and their twin daughters, 12-years-old Margaret and Linda Pentland, of Sacramento, Cal. Since Mrs. Hamar and Mrs. Pentland are also twin sisters, it was a happy family reunion.

The visitors spent two weeks with their sisters here and planned to visit other relatives in Edmonton and Two Hills before returning to their home.

Mr. & Mrs. M. Maccagno Honored On Silver Wedding Anniversary

LAC LA BICHE — Mr. and Mrs. Mike Maccagno were recent guests of honor at a surprise party when some 40 friends called to help them celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. Humphrey Senetza was master of ceremonies for the evening. Marshall Hamar, a friend of the popular couple for 28 years, recalled some interesting and amusing incidents throughout the years of their acquaintance.

Mr. and Mrs. Maccagno were presented with silver entree dishes and the bride of 25 years was also presented with a lovely corsage.

Friends had baked and decorated a beautiful three-tiered anniversary cake for the occasion.

Lunch was served by the ladies and a most enjoyable evening was spent in singing and recalling old times.

Kumpulas Entertain American Visitors

RICH LAKE — Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Kumpula had as guests the latter's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Stanislaws Maslanka, and her uncle, Bro. August Sutter of Chicago and Brummerdale Seminary, Carthagena, Ohio. They enjoyed fishing and swimming in Fork Lake; a Finnish (Sauna) bath at Mrs. Fiina Kumpula's home; motor boat rides at Ray Kumpula's beach.

Relatives and friends gathered at Fork Lake South Beach for a picnic July 21 then went on to Craigend to a wedding dance that night.

The group made a tour of Ira Kumpula's farm and inspected the pure bred Hereford cattle.

Bro. August Sutter and the children kept the household well supplied with wild strawberries.

Topographical Crew Camped At Bayview

PLAMONDON — A government topographical crew pitched tents at Bayview Beach recently.

The crew was destined to camp at Lyle Lake, but due to rain, new grade and road conditions made camp at Bayview and will be working north and north-east from there by helicopter and plane.

This news is being sent in by your reporter just to enlighten you when you see the helicopter and plane taking off from Bayview daily, and flying over your farms and homes.

Politeness is a virtue that seems to be on the wane these days.

ATHABASCA MP TELLS COMMONS:

Should Keep Young People In School Until Age 20

Canada should find some way to keep children in school until age 20 and then provide opportunity for young people to find suitable employment. This thought was contained in a speech by Jack Bigg, MP for Athabasca, given in the House of Commons on July 30.

Mr. Bigg's views on the subject are reprinted from the Parliamentary Guide as follows:

It is sometimes difficult to rise in one's place and speak about education because as we know this is largely a provincial matter, but I hope these grants for vocational training open the subject wide enough to enable us to explore some of the issues which are intimately connected with this question, and one of them I think is the age at which our children leave school. I suggest to the minister that in this program of educating the public of Canada, and particularly the people who are interested in this matter on the provincial level, consideration be given to getting the provinces to agree to keep all children at school until the age of 18, and possibly the age of 20.

After the war it was my privilege to give vocational guidance to those soldiers who were coming out of the armed forces and seeking to rehabilitate themselves. The greatest problem we had was that a great many of these young men, I would assume about three quarters of them, had no skill whatsoever apart from their military training except that of being able to drive a car or truck. Today, as has been so well put, we are becoming increasingly industrialized. It was all right at one time to leave school and go home and help your dad on the farm when you were 16, because the skills you had to learn were learned at first hand at the plow behind a team of horses; but even on the farms today you are not going to make a decent living, and you are certainly not going to be a successful farmer, one who has a knowledge of our agricultural industry, unless you have considerable technical skill.

As has been said also, the provinces are less able to finance

this scheme of technical education, which covers a wide field. It covers not only industry and manufacturing but mining, metallurgy, exploration for oil, survey of our natural resources, and this great new forestry department which is to be set up. I think there will be great need there for technical men of all kinds. It should provide an opportunity to put a lot of our young people to work in the woods, and to provide them with schooling while they are there. Perhaps even the age of 18 is too low; perhaps if you could keep them in school until the age of 20 it would assist not only in keeping all those young people from coming out as unskilled unemployed but would increase their capability once they did get out.

G. Brouwer Buys Grandish Store, Adds Plumbing To Other Services

HYLO — The new owner of Grandish's General Store is Geert Brouwer, who came with his family from Holland seven years ago and settled in Edmonton. Preferring a quiet place to the hustle and bustle of the city, he soon started looking around the country for a business. Within the past two years he scouted around some 20 country places before coming to Hylo which he found the most suitable of all these places.

Mr. Brouwer is taking over all Mr. Grandish's business including groceries, merchandise, hardware, appliances, machinery and gas. He is also a plumber and prepared to make estimates on buildings.

Mr. Brouwer is by no means new in business for he was operating his own furniture business in Holland from 1935 to 1953 and at times had as many as 12 men working under him. He is prepared to give as good service as Mr. Grandish did and hopes to meet all the people around here soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Brouwer have six children. Two sons and one daughter are married. Their son John, who is 18 years old, will help in the store; George is in Grade 9 and Patsy is in Grade 5.

Amber Valley Scene For Wedding

An afternoon ceremony in the Amber Valley Church on July 23 was the scene of a beautiful wedding in which Miss Geraldine Whittaker became the bride of Mr. Elmer Hope.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Whittaker of Amber Valley and the groom was the son of Mr. W. Hope of Ferguson.

For her wedding Miss Whittaker chose a beautiful white gown. A reception was held in the school where a number of people were served and many beautiful gifts were shown.

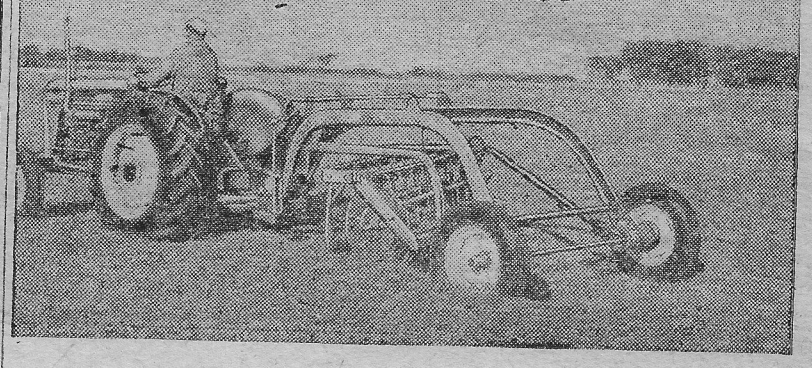
OLIVER RAKES
save more leaves



You'll save more with an Oliver Rake—semi-mounted, parallel-bar No. 107, or the pull-type No. 2. The 5-bar No. 107 cuts hay travel from swath to windrow almost in half, reduces shattering of valuable leaves. You can rake faster, too—do the job in half the time. A small diameter, 4-bar reel on the No. 2 turns slower, handles hay more gently, sweeps fields cleaner.

School Committee Discusses Fall Requirements at Meeting

This time of year most of the time at school committee meetings must of necessity be taken with discussion of policies in regard to teaching certain grades at certain schools; the number of students which will be registering; the grades they will be taking, the bus accommodation necessary; the teacher requirements.

On July 12, the first day of the four-day meeting, superintendent M. G. Gault made a report of teacher recruitment, including his trip to the States, which was quite successful. The report was continued on the second day of the meeting, in the superintendent's report.

The use of the Perryvale School was granted for a Community Library.

Various small buildings on several school sites were considered for sale.

Permission was granted the Colinton Parish, Anglican Church of Canada, to use the gymnasium of the Colinton school for one day.

Consideration was given to the recommendation that ten new typewriters be purchased for the schools. Some figures were available, but committees felt tenders should be called on the same size typewriters.

School committee plans in regard to granting of bursaries this year was discussed. It was felt all the county students be accommodated first. Then it might be possible to assist some outside the county.

The committee has recently acquired additional land at the Smith school site. Practical use of this took considerable time, and a report is expected at the next meeting.

After supper the Smith building plans were considered and approved. Bids will be opened July 18. Approval was given to teach Grade 10 at Colinton, if a suitable teacher can be found.

Following the reading of the minutes, and their adoption, the council was interviewed by a Mr. Brown, of Farm Electric Services, who outlined the problems common between REA's and rural municipalities and counties. Earth moving was one of the prime causes for trouble with the line, and decisions to widen roads, necessitating moving of the power lines. If the company is notified in plenty of time, he said, the expense is not as great as the line may be moved without removing the wires.

PRODUCES DRAWINGS

He also produced some drawings relative to the danger of disturbing the soil too close to the power poles and gave an interesting lecture on how to handle situations where the ground wire has been disturbed.

He said Farm Electric Services made no payment for easement, as this was a community betterment project.

His present plans call for a visit later in the summer and he will then go around with the road crew to instruct them in safety precautions.

He said if any of the men had any questions, do not guess at the answers, contact the representative at Boyle and get the right

Merchant In Hylo For 25 Years, Stanley Grandish Sells Business

Stanley Grandish, general merchant of Hylo for 25 years, has sold out his business to Geert Brouwer of Edmonton.

Mr. Grandish, originally of Smoky Lake, came to Hylo in March of 1935 as a young man of only 19 and bought the little store from Joe Biollo in partnership with Bill Chornolisky. At that time John Varzi was the operator.

In 1938 the partnership was dissolved and that same year, in June, Mr. Grandish was married and brought his young bride to help him carry on his business. The bride found it a bit lonesome at first for she had no relatives here. However, this did not last long for the business was thriving and Mr. Grandish needed a lot of help in the store. Thus his wife met many people and, being a friendly person, soon had many friends.

It was not long before Mr. and Mrs. Grandish, both energetic and enthusiastic, built a new house and extended their store to include their previous living quarters at the back. In 1935 they again built an addition to the store for business was progressing continually and the Grandishes believed in giving good and ample service to the customers. Their plans, prior to the sale, were to enlarge their store once again, in order to give better service in hardware and appliances. Mr. Grandish was a well known J. I. Case dealer and also sold gas.

Mr. and Mrs. Grandish were both active in the Hylo Home and School organization, church activities, chamber of commerce and were always willing to help these organizations in every way possible. Their zest was unbounded in business and pleasure and they did much to keep this little hamlet of Hylo progressing. They have a daughter and son. Grace is a teacher in Edmonton and Bob is a Senior High student.

A farewell party was held in their honor in the Hylo Hall and a large crowd attended. Refreshments, with the compliments of the Grandishes, were served in the early evening. Music was supplied by Walt Tichonuk's orchestra for dancing pleasure. The highlight of the evening was the presentation of a beautiful silver tea set, coffee pot and tray to Mr. and Mrs. Grandish from the Hylo-Noral-Venice districts and best wishes were extended to them from these communities. Mrs. O. Meardi, president of the Hylo Home and School, presented Mrs. Grandish , past president, with a gift on behalf of all the members of this oganization. Miss Cecile Meardi presented a gift to Grace and Alex Tichonuk made the presentation to Bob on behalf of their friends here.

Mr. Grandish, on behalf of his family, thanked everyone for coming to the party and for the gifts. He also thanked everyone for their patronage in the store for he assured thme that if it had not been for their wonderful support he would not have progressed as well as he did. He enjoyed being here and intends to visit Hylo often in the future. Mrs. Grandish graciously added her thanks and asked everyone to support the H and S organization, for through it a tremendous amount of work could be done, but it needs everyone behind it, she said. Mrs. Grandish concluded with the invitation to everyone to drop in to see them whenever they are Edmonton. Grace and Bob also thanked their friends for the gifts and said they will certainly miss all their friends in Hylo.

Then followed, for added enjoyment, a humorous life history of Mr. Grandish, written by Mrs. C. McEchern and read by William Sachko.

Lunch, supplied by the ladies, was then served.

Mr. and Mrs. Grandish, Grace and Bob moved to Edmonton on August 1 where they own a large house. They have no definite plans for the future except to take a good long holiday.

Dolores Coughlin, Peter Denesiuk Pledge Marriage Vows In Waskatenau

ELLSCOTT — The Ukrainian Greek Orthodox Church was the scene of a lovely wedding recently when Miss Dolores Coughlin, daughter of Mrs. Mary Coughlin of Ellscott, became the bride of Mr. Peter Denesiuk of Waskatenau .

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Flak of Radway before an altar decorated with vases of red and white gladioli.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Frank Peck of Edmonton, the bride chose a floor-length white nylon chiffon gown with lily point sleeves. Her finger-tip veil was held by a rhinestone and crystal tiara and she carried a bouquet of red roses and rosebuds which cascaded to the hem of her gown. Her only jewelry was a set of pearls, gift of the groom.

The bridesmaids, Miss Patricia Coughlin, sister of the bride, Miss Yvonne Palamark and Miss Deanne Smoliarchuk chose white cocktail nylon chiffon dresses and pearlized shoes. They wore white picture hats and each wore pearls and earrings to match, gifts of the bride and groom. They wore short gloves and carried pink carnations.

The flower girl, Sherril Karpuik, was charming in a frock similar to the bridesmaids and carried a basket of pink flowers and rosebuds. The ring-bearer, Douglas Klem, was dressed in a white dinner jacket and black pants and carried the rings on a small white cushion.

The best men, Mr. John Denesuik, Mr. Harvey Coughlin and Mr. Alix Starchuk, were dressed in white dinner jackets and black pants. The usher was Mr. Allen Weighl of Ellscott.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Coughlin chose a white linen sheath with pink accessories and wore pink roses.

The groom's mother wore a brocade dress and pink roses en corsage.

Following the wedding a reception and a dance were held in the Ellscott community Hall.

The bride is employed at the AGT office in Weskatenau where the groom is a carpenter. Following a honeymoon trip to Banff and the United States, Mr. and Mrs. Denesiuk will make their home in Waskatenau.

THE HERO

By GLADYS DIESEL

Over the sea of memory, times of happiness or of great personal grief and stress return with full force in moments of quiet aloneness. One woman, with whom I am well acquainted, remembers a cold winter day on a bleak homestead near the Owl, with no passable trail leading out to Lac La Biche. Her young son, about 15, who was the eldest of her brood of five, ate a hearty breakfast and set out gaily with his father to cut firewood two miles farther back in the forest.

The three R's were being taught at home, and the remaining children studied quietly. A foreboding took possession of the mother's thoughts, and she made a trip to the window to gaze out across the snowy clearing to the silent forest beyond, every few minutes.

Her heart gave a great leap of terror when first she discerned the dark object which seemed to move toward the house, and then fall down in the snow. The tall figure of a man stood up but at once stooped, grappled and struggled forward again. She shouted to the next oldest son to run and find out what was wrong with his Dad while she put more wood on the stoves and set the tea kettle to boil.

In a little while he was back, panting and sobbing: "Mom, it's Bob—he's awful sick and Dad is trying to carry him part of the time. We have to get the battery out of the cellar for the puddle jumper (Model T Ford Truck). Dad said to think of something to do."

The mother ran out to help them the rest of the way to the house. When the feverish, moaning boy had been placed on the couch by the fire, she gave him a little soda water but this only made him vomit again. He said his back pained him most of all.

While the father put heated water in the radiator of the puddle jumper, the mother wrapped the sick lad in blankets, threw a few things into a bag and put on a coat. She sat in the truck box, behind, so that the boy would have more room, and they started out to break a trail across the frozen lake to the hospital. The younger children screamed after the truck: "We'll nail the house up Mom, and walk to Grandmother's."

The trail was hard to break, plowing through the snow, and the puddle jumper snorted and bucked. The radiator boiled but they made it at last, after more than two hours of worried struggle. The mother, numb with cold but still praying, crawled from the back of the puddle jumper and helped to get her boy inside the hospital walls where the kindly Sisters took charge of them all.

A tall, handsome, very young looking doctor had just been added to the hospital staff ,and he set to work at once on the lad. He took his temperature, asked questions, gave a test, and then his diagnosis. He wanted to save the lad's life but he must operate at once. He wanted to try it alone; he said that he must; that the parents must consent. There was no other doctor or nurse closer than Edmonton, and no way to bring them to Lac la Biche. A trembling consent was given, and a young doctor worked alone, with God his only helper, through all the darkest hours of the night. The father walked the floor and the mother sobbed continuously as she tried to pray. In the morning the boy was resting at intervals. The parents rejoiced that he was still alive, and the doctor's dark eyes sparkled when he smlied. His task had been well done.

Although the doctor is "The Hero," she is too reticent to walk up and say: "Thank you, Dr. Cadieux, for all the good you have done in the town and outlying districts", but she thinks it.

Should Keep Young People In School Until Age 20

If as a federal government we can lead the way in educating the provinces and the individual members of the public to spend the necessary funds, I think it will be an investment in natural resources second to none. Our young people are the greatest natural resource there is.

I also wish to say at this time that it is not good enough just to educate them. We have to create opportunities for future employment here in Canada. I get tired of hearing and reading from time to time the statistics of the technically trained young people who go south of the line. I think we are responsible for producing thousands of well trained, well educated young men and women, and not enough attention is paid to maintaining the standards of pay and opportunity here in Canada. I am not going to labour the point here, but I certainly want to put my moral support behind the last speaker and, of course, behind our ministry who are taking this forward step. As to the amounts of money provided, I am in sympathy with the provinces which do not have a great amount of money, but I think they themselves can do more to encourage vocational and technical training at the provincial level.

I should like also to say something about equal standards of education across Canada. Again this is perhaps a little bit out of line here, but it is very difficult for families who are working at occupations where they must follow the work and who must take their children out of school in one province and put them in school in another. Often they may lose a year and sometimes more of their school training. I should like to see something done to standardize education across Canada and also to standardize the licensing requirements for certain professions, such as the nursing profession, for instance. A nurse has to get a licence in each province across Canada. It seems to me that a nurse who is properly trained in Montreal is quite capable of looking after sick people in Winnipeg or Vancouver.

Educational standards are certainly something that need attention, because members of the armed forces continually meet problems in that connection. If a man is stationed at Dartmouth in Nova Scotia and goes to Cold Lake in Alberta, he will find that adjustments have to be made in the level of education of his children. I will not say whether they lose or gain, but there are adjustments to be made. It seems to me ridiculous to have 10 standards of education in a country like Canada, where our population has to shift from province to province. It is certainly affecting the free movement of our labor force, and if it is going to affect the education of our children then I say anything that encourages the young people with initiative to stay at school and improve their technical ability will add to the economic welfare of our country.

Mrs. Hamel Returns From Eastern Canada

LAC LA BICHE — Mrs. C. Hamel has just returned from a five-month stay in eastern Canada. While she was in Montreal she and her four sisters were together for the first time in 35 years.

Mrs. Hamel visited the world-renowned shrine of St. Ann de Beaupre, also St. Joseph's shrine on Mount Royal.

Among several places of interest she visited the typically-French city of Quebec, where so much Canadian history was enacted, Detroit, where her brother lives, and New York City.

Although Mrs. Hamel's stay in eastern Canada was a most pleasant one she was glad to return to Lac la Biche as there is "no place like home," she says.

Mrs. Hamel's niece and nephew, Regeanne and Bernard Meloche, 8 and 10 years of age respectively, of Montreal, accompanied her to Lac la Biche to spend the summer. They will return to their home by plane in the fall.

Awards Presented At Conclusion Of Swimming, First Aid Lessons

On July 17 the Vilna swimmers' lessons ended with a water safety demonstration conducted by Ron Smith of the Red Cross water safety department. The event included presentation of awards, boat safety, basic fundamentals of learning to swim, various swimming strokes, reaching assists and artificial respiration.

The event got underway with the presentation of awards by William Kureluk, president of the local Red Cross body.

The beginners, who received their awards are Mark Frobb, Geo. Fowler, Jerry Babichuk, Barbara Viteychuk, Donnie Rudiak, Robert Alexandruik, Lasia Petrash and Leona Russ.

Three intermediates received awards; they are Ernie Pacholek, Sylvia Viteychuk and Pat Harasem. One lone senior passed, Donna Kureluk.

The demonstration was performed by the two instructors, Alec Werstuik and Franklin Viteychuk, and the students who participated in the instructions.

The first item of the demonstration was the basic fundamentals of learning to swim. This was demonstrated by Betty Viteychuk, Mark Frobb, Enid Frobb, Raymond Shapka and Roy Viteychuk. The basic fundamentals included orientation to water, front glide, roll over, stand up, back glide, breathing, prone float, flutter kick, arm movement and finally the wonder of swimming.

Then the various swimming strokes were performed. Leona Lehner demonstrated the elementary back stroke; Delia Kureluk, the crawl; Donna Kureluk the side stroke; Alec Werstiuk, breast stroke.

Then Franklin Viteychuk demonstrated the dive. Donna Kureluk performed the surface dive, and the underwater swim. Next came the reaching assists which were performed by Sylvia Viteychuk and Pat Harasem. The reaching assists included an arm, leg, pole and oar. Then Alec Werstiuk threw a life line to Pat Harasem to demonstrate the proper way of reaching a person in difficulty from a distance. Franklin Viteychuk then carried a torpedo to Alec Werstiuk and demonstrated the proper way to haul in a person by swimming.

Alex Werstiuk demonstrated the way to use one's own pants as a life jacket. The pant cuffs are tied at each end, then, wet, pulled over the head. Blow air in pants under water and one has a life jacket.

Boat safety was the next item. Alec and Franklin demonstrated the proper way of changing position in a boat; proper entry into a boat, proper way of entering the boat from the water and the proper way of getting into the water from the boat. Then Alec, Franklin, Leona Lehner, Mike Mochulski, Betty Viteychuk and Donna Kureluk demonstrated all the improper ways of boat safety.

Veterinary Clinic And Laboratory Opened In Vermilion By Dr. Brown

The Vermilion Veterinary Clinic has been opened by Dr. Jim Brown in the building formerly known as Dargatz Tire Service.

Following graduation from the Ontario Veterinary College Dr. Brown commenced practice in Vermilion in May, 1959. In this time he has found it necessary to expand his facilities so that he can provide better veterinary service to his clients.

Since the purchase of the building it has been remodelled extensively to provide a modern interior. The front entrance opens into a bright reception area where there is situated a complete veterinary drug dispensary. Adjacent to this is a modernly equipped small animal examination and surgery room. There is also kennel accommodation for post-operative treatment and also for boarding animals for people who wish to leave their pets when they go on holidays.

Dr. Brown also has a small laboratory where he carries out microscopic examinations on sample specimens as well as other clinical laboratory tests. Of particular interest is the mastitis testing, in which milk from an infected cow is incubated to grow the causative organisms and tested with the various anti-biotics to determine which drug will give the most satisfactory response. This takes the guess-work out of this treatment. Very often several drugs will kill the bug causing the infection and the least expensive of these can be used.

Probably the most important feature of this building is the drive-in large animal clinic where Dr. Brown examines and treats the animals and performs surgery where needed. Postmortems are also performed in this area. These facilities make certain that the correct instruments and drugs are at hand and that proper treatment and care can be administered at much lower costs to the clients as the mileage charges can be eliminated.

Mr., Mrs. Howson Married 40 Years

Mr. and Mrs. William Howson, former Vermilion couple now residing at 10832-72 Ave., Edmonton, celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary on July 4.

TIPS FOR PARENTS

By HELEN R. HEWSON
Parent Education Associates

A YOUNG mother asks anxiously, "Are there more emotionally disturbed children than there used to be? I don't remember hearing the term until a few years ago.

"Were these unhappy children called something else when I was a child or is this a new manifestation of the tensions of life today?

"Is there anything mere parents can do to ensure the emotional well-being of their children?"

A few days ago the executive secretary of the Family and Child Welfare Division of the Canadian Welfare Council said, "the number of emotionally disturbed children appears to be increasing.

"Their behavior is a reflection of the uncertainties of life today. The emotionally disturbed child has a feeling of always being thwarted."

The number appears to be increasing. All children as they are growing up exhibit certain forms of behavior that are usually labelled "problem"; temper tantrums, irritability, aggressiveness, defiance, etc.

In the emotionally disturbed child this troublesome behavior is intensified.

The uncertainties of life today—our physical comfort and convenience—are accompanied by much worry and anxiety.

We feel it is good to have the things that man's industry and ingenuity have produced but we worry about values, about discipline, about changing social habits.

We can't worry in secret; our children are aware of it.

What can parents do? Parents are all-important in promoting the emotional well-being of their children.

Accept the fact that adult responsibilities involve a few headaches and heartaches as well as satisfactions.

Also realize that children's activities require thought and planning today.

It may be troublesome to find, space and things to do, but it pays off in peace of mind for both adult and child. Too many "nos" add up to that "feeling of always being thwarted."

Work, fun, and a firm but friendly discipline build emotional health and well-being.

Here is a recipe for jam without cooking. What a boom during a heat wave! This method gives a product of fresh flavor and good color.

FROZEN JAMS

Strawberry Jam:-

2 cups finely mashed strawberries
4 cups sugar
½ bottle (½ cup) liquid pectin

Raspberry Jam:-

3 cups finely mashed red raspberries
6 cups sugar
½ bottle (½ cup) liquid pectin

Combine berries and sugar. Let stand about 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add pectin and stir about 2 minutes. Pour into jelly glasses or freezer containers. Cover and let stand at room temperature for 24 to 48 hours, or until jelled. Seal with paraffin and store in freezer. It will keep several weeks at refrigerator temperature.

B. McCutcheon

The fruit should be very finely mashed. To prevent the formation of crystals, jams should be covered as soon as poured and sealed with paraffin.

For Black Raspberry, Cherry, Peach, Apricot and Prune Plum Jams, use same proportions as in Strawberry jam. (For (Peach and Apricot jams also add one teaspoon citric acid powder to the mashed fruit.)

For Blackberry and Damson Plum Jams, use proportions given for Raspberry Jam. Grape Jam is made the same way but first the seeds have to be separated by heating and straining.

They were also authorized to enter into an ageerment with the provincial secretary's department for the recreational grant for Rochester, Colinton and Grassland.

After lunch complaints in regard to roads, complaints in regard to winter works projects, and salesmen took considerable time. One delegation, whose spokesman was E. Staszewski, made a plea for improved roads in order the school bus could travel more frequently. A delegation composed of councillors will look at the road.

Another delegation from Donatville also were pleading for gravel on the school bus roads. If it rained, they said, the road was so greasy the driver couldn't pick up the children. A further complaint was that the bus driver didn't go when the roads were fit. After listening to this latter complaint in some detail, the council felt it was really a matter for the school committee and the delegation was asked to present their case to them.

INSPECT ROAD

The committee appointed to inspect the route of the contingency road Boyle to Colinton made its report. The committee had gone through the entire route, except the muskeg and had driven around it and rejoined the route. They were travelling in a jeep. On the alternate route they found two canyons, a lake, a muskeg, stoney ridges and bogs. Some felt the road could be built on the alternate route, but that it would be much more costly than the first route picked.

After hearing the reports of the members of the committee a vote by ballot was taken, which favored the Boyle to Colinton route.

At 5 p.m. M. G. Gault approached the council in regard to the Summer Course Coaching School similar to that held last year. He outlined the purpose of the school and the reason it was instigated. The results of last year's school were very heartening.

After talking the matter over it was decided to lay plans for running a similar school this year, during the month of August. Nothing concrete can be done until the Grade 12 marks are out, however.

Committee Discusses Fall Requirements

George Godel approached the council for a clarification of their policy in regard to back-sloping roads, and a request as to how much encouragement should be given farmers. The council, while all in favo of back-sloping, explained that in some areas it cost almost as much to back-slope a road as to build it, and that therefore the amount done had to be limited. Each councillor was asked to review his area and pay particular attention to where the roads are drifting badly and report. A decision in policy will be made at the next meeting.

On Friday, the morning was taken with discussion of business from the minutes and winter works. That and routine answers from correspondence took the meeting till the noon adjournment.

The meeting reconvened at 1:15 and the correspondence file was continued.

Councillors Breckenridge and Lechky wer appointed to attend the municipal convention at Edmonton July 25. Approval was given for proposed extensions to the Grassland REA, the ABNT REA.

EXPRESS APPRECIATION

A letter from W. E. Coast, department of lands and forests at Lac la Biche, thanked the county for the co-operation received during the spring, and terminated the arrangement for fire guardians until the fall months.

A discussion in regard to the spending of the balance of the grant for parks over what had been spent at Baptiste Lake took some time. A plea was made for the council to consider Charron Lake as a possible site and the committee was appointed to look into the matter was added to by the addition of councillors Davidiuk and Krajacic. Former members were Weldon, Loxam and Lechky. The council will acquire land at Skeleton Lake.

Routine correspondence (it was heavy this month) carried up to 3:45 at which time welfare cases were considered.

At 5:15 a discussion of what to do in regard to the outstanding seed grain loans from 1955 took three-quarters of an hour. Some are making an effort to pay, and others are not paying.

After a satisfactroy interview, Ron Black was appointed as County Police fo the balance of July and the month of August on a part time basis. He will mainly patrol the resort areas.

Request of the shop foreman to use a school bus to transport men and tools was granted on his assurance it would be kept clean.

After supper the report of the Agricultural Service Board was read. O nthe request of that body, the council approved Dr. G. Fritsch to conduct the Bangs Vaccination program. Several leases were granted.

It was felt that a road in the border area, in the centre of sections 12 and 1, Twp. 68, Rge. 17, running north and south should be the esponsibility of the LID and a motion was made.

A letter will be written to an operator of a truck who used chains on his truck during wet weather that the use of chains is prohibited during rainy weather in the county.

Accounts were started at 8:40 p.m., after which the meeting adjourned.

National Geographic Spotlights Alberta In July Edition

Alberta was thrown into international prominence in July when National Geographic carried a feature article with colored pictures under the title, "Alberta Unearths Her Hidden Treasures."

Written by David S. Boyer, the province's assets are beautifully illustrated in word and picture.

Edmonton's Jasper Avenue at night, the City Hall's spaghetti tree and council chambers, and the Imperial Oil Refinery are among the excellent color reproductions used.

The article leads off with a description of Calgary during Stampede week and then chats about bears and summer school in Banff. Alberta's oil, gas and sugar beet industries are covered along with fishing, lumbering and agriculture.

Windsor Booth, chief of the News Service for the Society, says Albertans can order extra copies of the July issue for $1 by writing the National Geographic Society, Washington 6, D.C., U.S.A.
